Please join us for a slide presentation led by a group of volunteers that recently spent two weeks evaluating building damage in Petit Goave, Haiti. This is in response to the January 12, 2010 earthquake that left 1.2 million people homeless. Seven months after the tragedy, most of these people are still living in tents, and no large scale permanent reconstruction has begun. Please bring your questions and invite others to the event.

This will be an excellent opportunity to learn how to get involved!
